OUR MISSION

This is a movement, not a course catalogue.

We are trying to solve the ADHD crisis three ways: by educating far more clinicians than currently exist, by advocating for the people stuck on waiting lists, and by getting undiagnosed adults into work and keeping them there.

Education

Train the generalist workforce the Taskforce asked for, not another handful of super-specialists.

Advocacy

Challenge misinformation, and push publicly for shorter waits and better standards.

Employment

Diagnosis and support are what keep people in work. That is the point of the whole thing.

WHY NOW

The backlog will not clear in your career.

Which is the uncomfortable part, and also the reason this work does not run out. Waiting lists are measured in years, not months. The clinicians who train now are the ones services will be recruiting from for the next decade.

Attending the ADHD management course...

"Attending the ADHD management course was worth every penny paid. Having done the diagnosis training with this reputable organisation just over a year ago, it has been a very amazing experience. I have been able to use my training to secure ADHD assessor roles and it has been rewarding ever since. Thank you guys for an amazing experience."
